VICTOR HUGO'S GREAT NOVEL.
COMPLETE IN FIVE VOLUMES.
CARLETON'S EDITION.

LES MISERABLES—VALJEAN.
THE FIFTH PART and last of HUGO'S Great Novel is now ready.

The parts are:
PART I.—FANTINE. PART II.—COSETTE.
PART III.—MARIUS. PART IV.—ST. DENIS.
PART V.—VALJEAN.

Such works as this appear but once in a century. "Les Misérables" is too humbly designated a novel by its author, for the novel is a series before which the master sits proclaiming as with authority the grandest and most vital truths. The Parsons of Christ have had in essence and purpose no more successful imitator. Victor Hugo, in the decline of life, has been an author of mark for more than a quarter of a century; he is an exile and outlaw because he is a republican and will not abjure his faith; yet not a trace of bitterness, of narrowness, deforms these august volumes. Royalist, imperialist, aristocrat, conservatist, may perish them without aversion, for their author has risen through observation, reflection, experience, suffering, to that scene high whence is comprehend the good in evil, the truth in seeming falsehood, and the boughs new which Omnipotent Wisdom extracts from human frailty, hypocrisy, bigotry and crime.

THE IRON FURNACE;

OR,
SLAVERY AND SECESSION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21, 1862.
Rev. John H. Ambry, a Freeholder, originally proposes to publish work on this subject. Mr. Ambry is a son of Miss Ambry. For his adherence to the Union he thrice narrowly escaped death. All his property has been confiscated—not only real estate, but household furniture, and library. He is therefore left without means of support.
He will, however, be enabled to continue the works of the present investigation, a history of the Secession movement from its commencement, and his own personal history; his persecutions and sufferings in the Union cause; his imprisonment and escape from prison four days before the day appointed for his execution; his trial for treason, and his release and escape to freedom and bloodlessness till he reached the Union lines at Rensselaer.

Born of property, health, and almost of life itself, he has escaped with his life, and of friends to aid him in the publication of his work. The world will be pleased as soon as the requisite number of subscribers can be obtained at 75 cents per copy.

It will contain about 250 pages 12mo, and being a work of thrilling interest, differing wholly from all works written on the same subject, will amply repay the outlay for its purchase. The Rev. Dr. J. M. Krebs, Snodgrass, A. D. Smith, and others of the Synods of New England and New York will be pleased to furnish the highest and most assured endorsement. All who desire a copy of the work will please send their names to the REV. J. M. KREBS, D. D., No. 141 Henry-st., New York.
